

This Is My Job!

I am in the third grade and this is my job. It is a very important job. Some of the girls and boys that work with me at my job will grow up to create new things, find cures for diseases and become leaders as they enhance the world.

We will all be able to do these things because of the job we have now. This book will help me to tell my story. It will explain how I feel about the different parts of my job. It will also let me meet and talk with the people I work with.

THIS is my job!

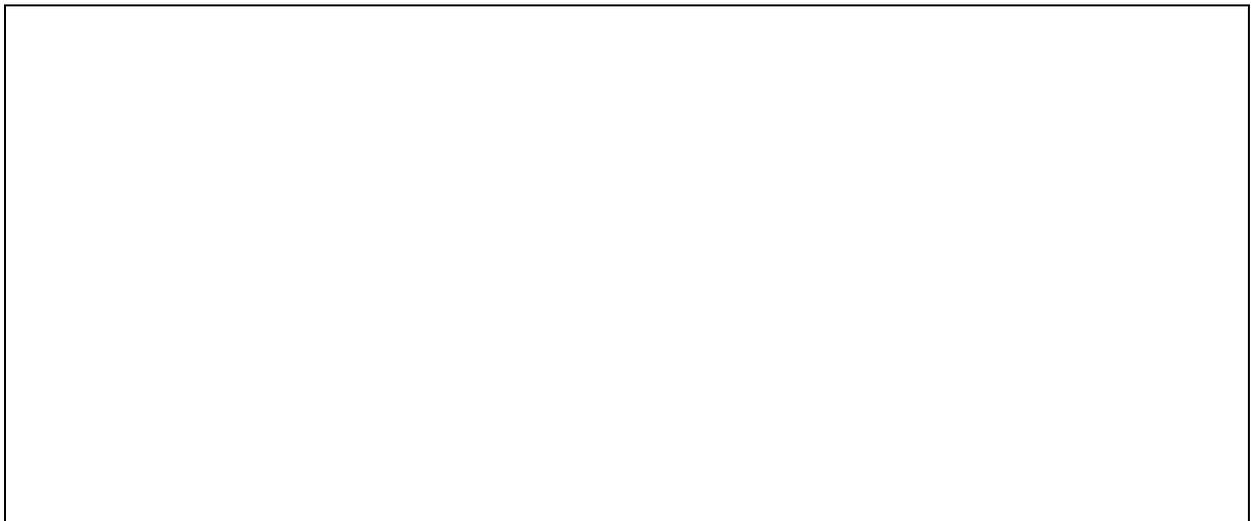

My name is _____.

All about me!

I am _____ years old.

My job is to be in the third grade at my school, called
_____.

When I grow up, I dream about being an/a _____ or an/a
_____. Use the boxes below to draw your two dream jobs.

My Experiences

The longer I work at my job, the more experience I get. I have been working at my job at school for _____ years and _____ months.

When I first started my job, there were some things I could not do. My job has taught me how to do many things. Some of those things are:

Experience has helped me to do these things!

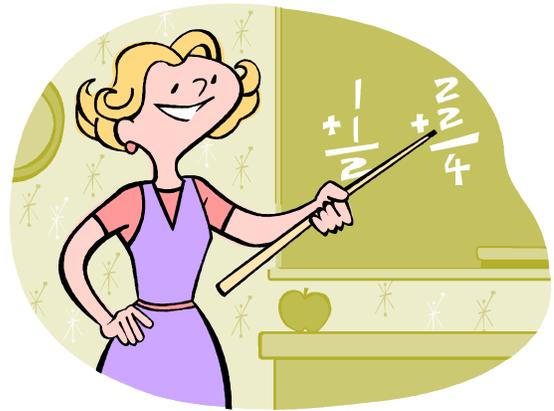

Being Responsible

Something that a person is supposed to do is called responsibility.

Every job has responsibilities. If a worker doesn't accept their responsibilities, sometimes sad things can happen.

The responsibility of my teacher is

_____.

My teacher's name is _____.

My teacher has to know about

_____.

My teacher needs to know how to read because _____.

Caring

Every person needs to be caring in their job. Caring about others means you want to help them to succeed.

One thing a caring teacher would do is

If the teacher wasn't caring, how would you feel?

Being a Good Citizen

Everyone can become a good citizen at home, at their job, at school and in their community.

One thing a school secretary does that shows he or she is a good citizen is

_____.

If the secretary wasn't a good citizen, how would it affect your job?

_____.

My secretary's name is _____.

My secretary needs to know about

_____.

My secretary needs to be able to read because

_____.

Trust

Everyone needs someone they can trust so they can talk to them and be honest. Being trustworthy means you keep promises.

My librarian shows her trust in me by

If you were not trustworthy, what would happen when you try to use the library?

Each day, you trust the cooks at your school to

If they were not trustworthy, you would

Fairness

Everyone needs and deserves to be treated fairly at their job. If workers are not treated with fairness, sad things can happen.

The principal at my school treats all students fairly by treating each child _____.

What would happen if your principal was not fair?

_____.

My principal's name is _____.

My principal shows fairness to students each year by _____.

My principal shows fairness to parents and teachers each year by

_____.

Respect

Everyone needs to show respect to others and everyone deserves to feel respected by others. Respect means you listen to the other people you work with.

Students show respect for their teachers by

Students show respect for their principal by

Students show respect for each other on the playground and in the classroom by

If one does not _____ themselves, it is difficult to respect others.